

September 18, 1983, p. 5

some Chinese soup and had eaten it using chop-sticks. He also arranged an antennae on my stereo, using a coat hanger, and I now get excellent FM reception -- two classical music stations so far. When I returned from church I entered my apartment to the sound of the "top 40" and that was a strange sensation -- to be sure. I almost told Dave Adams on Friday that I wanted a cable hook up for FM stereo and that would have cost $8.00/month, at least, and, lo and behold, JVB arranged a coat hanger on the back of my Sony and now I have excellent FM stereo reception. I have been enjoying classical music on the radio almost non-stop since the JVB installation. What a pleasure. I reported to JVB on my successful remarks during the BBC "ARM Service" and suggested we go to McDonnell's and have something to eat. We did: JVB had "the salad bar" and I had French fries and coffee. JVB treated. Ray Penaldi was seated by the Main Street window in the restaurant and I thanked him for the story on the BBC mortgage burning in Saturday's paper. Very friendly. JVB went to the CPL and worked and returned here and put on my formal attire: I had thought I would wear a white tie but ultimately decided to wear a black tie. Tail coat / top hat / etc. The church was full of people and a holiday mood prevailed. I was told that I would be seated on the platform with the other speakers and that pleased me. Rev. Richard Thomas was very friendly and asked about Russell as did Reverend Meneely. Again, almost before I knew what was going on, I found myself walking onto the stage at the BBC, and in a very few minutes I was presenting a "Brief History of Berean Baptist Church." I was very pleased with the presentation. Given on the following pages are my notes used in the presentation. What I did was give the specifics on the March 1, 1848 organizational meeting and then